“Each week on CONNECTIONS we profile a program reaching out to underserved communities. This week we recognize the All Stars Talent Show Network. The organization hosted a talent show Saturday at the African American museum of Dallas in Fair Park and they were nearly two dozen performances including rap, mime and dance. The All Stars Talent Show Network’s goal is to empower young North Texans and create transformative moments that will help kids discover new things. They’ve been doing the work for four years now in North Texas.”
